

June 23, 2008

Just for Today

Schedule your Success

Are you running your business, or is it running you? We all know about fixed expenses, but what about fixed activities? Those are the business building activities that need to take place every month. There should be no debate about whether that networking function fits into your schedule, or when you're holding seminars for the next four months.

Just for today: follow a success track. Open your planner and schedule your business-building activities from today right through December. Then plan your business around those activities.

Angela Sutcliffe-Shea

Inspiration from a Business Coach

Share your personal "aha". Let me know what worked for you: Feedback

SMARTstep®

we do effective marketing and sales plans. Call today to find out more about our "July is Sales Month" events - you can't afford not to.

www.angelasutcliffe.com